

Improve those five minutes!

Pull out the "prospect list," grab your Bell Telephone and say that final word to some hesitating buyer on your next month's route. Better still, set aside an hour or two a day for selling by telephone.

Many a twenty or thirty cent toll call has put an order of twenty or thirty or a hundred dollars on the books for the men who crowd into each spare minute just as much of good, hard telephone-sales talk as it will hold.

Make the minutes golden,
— by Bell Telephone.

1915 CITY TAXES

In accordance with Section 3 of an ordinance relating to the Collection of Taxes, passed by the Common Council of the City of Clarksburg, November 20, 1914, notice is hereby given that BEGINNING ON THURSDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1915, AND CONTINUING THEREAFTER EVERY BUSINESS DAY, LEGAL HOLIDAYS EXCEPTED, UNTIL TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30, 1915, the City Treasurer's office in the Colonial building, West Main Street, will be open continuously from the hour of 9:00 a. m., until 5:00 p. m., for the payment of taxes.

A DISCOUNT OF 2 1-2 PER CENT WILL BE MADE ON THE WHOLE AMOUNT OF THE TAXES OF 1915 TO ALL SUCH PERSONS, FIRMS, OR CORPORATIONS, WHO SHALL PAY THEIR TAXES ON OR BEFORE THE 30TH DAY OF NOVEMBER.

In order to accommodate the working-men and wage earners of the Greater Clarksburg, who are employed in the factories outside of the City, as well as those in the city,

The Treasurer's Office will be open every Saturday night from 7:00 to 9:00 o'clock during the discount period.

GRAND ARMY IS FOR REPUBLICAN PARTY

Almost to a Man as Shown by Canvass of Veterans at the Encampment.

(SPECIAL TO THE TELEGRAM)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The headquarters here of the National Progressive Union, which organization proclaims its purpose to be to work to reunite the Republican party on a progressive platform, held a poll of 1,200 old soldiers who were in Washington to attend the Grand Army encampment, and has announced the result which, whatever degree of importance it may otherwise possess is, at least interesting.

Of the 1,200 veterans polled, 1,029 said they were Republicans; 531 voted for Taft in 1912, 416 for Roosevelt and 260 for Wilson. Of the latter eighty-eight of them said that in voting for Wilson they did not consider themselves Democrats by so doing. It was either as a protest against their party or personal to the candidates, either Taft or Roosevelt. All of the eighty-eight said they expected to vote the Republican ticket next year. Four who voted for Roosevelt and seven for Taft said they intended to vote for Wilson next year. If he is nominated, unless events occur between now and election time to cause them to change their minds. The poll shows the 1,200 veterans aligned for 1916 as follows: Republicans 1,028, Democrats 171.

Only five possible candidates attained national proportions in the vote. Justice Hughes was either the first or second choice of all but 127 of the 774 who expressed any preference as to Republican candidates, the standing of all the party's presidential possibilities being:

First choice	Second choice
Hughes 209	488
Borah 155	101
Root 148	60
Burton 142	90
Cummins 84	61
Weeks 60	17
Sherman 5	3
Foraker 5	2
Any Republican candidate, 255.

Hughes, Borah and Root received votes from every state polled, the solid Democratic states of the South and the states of Arizona, Nevada and New Mexico being omitted from the poll. Burton and Cummins each received votes from twenty-one states, Wicks from fourteen, and Sherman from one, his own state of Illinois. Former Vice-President Fairbanks was not named as the choice of a single veteran.

The poll furnishes good material for the analysis, and is good full of interesting deductions, few of which will fall to be extracted. One thing that is certainly shown beyond cavil is that the old union soldier still clings by a large majority to the party of Lincoln.

Borah on the Future.

Before leaving for Boston to deliver an address, Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, gave out an interview which, because of his prominence as a presidential possibility, takes on increased significance at this time. "There would be no trouble defeating the Democratic party itself," said Senator Borah. "If the administration is successful it will be on account of the personal popularity and strength of President Wilson. However, if the Republican party does a wise thing and adopts a liberal platform—one that is in harmony with liberal politics and views that can stand the test—I am inclined to think that it will win out."

"But our ultra-reactionary friends who assume that the liberal sentiment in this country has been dying out, or that the pendulum is swinging back, are greatly in error. Those who hold that opinion have not been out among those who cast votes; and so far as I am concerned, I feel more deeply interested in the liberal campaign of 1916 than I did in that of 1912, because I feel that the issues have become more vital."

"Do you think that Congress at its coming session will support the president in his plans for national defense," Senator Borah was asked.

"I think Congress will take measures providing for national defense," he replied.

"Do you think it will adopt the measures recommended by Secretary Garrison?"

"Congress has a high regard for Mr. Garrison's views in such a matter, and the inference is natural that it would be inclined to follow his suggestions."

"But I venture to guess," Senator Borah added with emphasis, "that Congress is not, without a good deal of hesitancy, going to provide for a bond issue to take care of military or naval necessities. It is my belief that a reasonable readjustment of the tariff on what now may be practically a revenue basis, together with a readjustment of the income tax, will not only take care of adequate measures for national defense, but enable us also to eliminate the so-called 'war tax,' which is a nuisance."

"We were collecting about $60,000,000 on sugar, in revenues, and about $28,000,000 on wool. Those two items alone indicate what a tremendous advantage there could be in raising revenues, by simply overhauling the Underwood bill."

"I think that the present tariff on sugar will certainly be retained. There is no possible argument against it, and it is just as feasible to put back the tariff on wool. The great cry for 'free wool' was predicated on the assumption that by taking the tariff off wool, you were going to make clothing cheaper. As a matter of fact the cry has not worked out in practice. The consumer cannot get his clothes any cheaper today than he could when wool was heavily taxed."

In the last ten days of the campaign in New York state, Senator Borah announced that he would make speeches there in favor of woman suffrage which is a live issue in this year's campaign in the Empire state.

Three Noteworthy Articles.
"Prosperity" is the name of a magazine published in New York, which announces itself "The Republican National Magazine," but which the national committee has not yet endorsed as an official mouthpiece. Politicians here have been circled with its last issue which is of interest to them because of the high party standing, and the presidential possibilities, of three of its contributors, namely, ex-Vice President Fairbanks, ex-Ambassador Myron T. Herrick and Representative James H. Mann, the Republican leader in the House.

The relation of the Republican party to business is the trend of most of the articles in the October number. Mr. Fairbanks, in his article, which is devoted largely to the dangers of the Underwood tariff, predicts a Republican victory at the next election in these words:

"The people have recorded their judgment against the Republican party only three times since the first election of Mr. Lincoln. Twice they subsequently regretted it; and if there is any veracity in the signs of the times, they will surely, if they do not already, regret their third departure from the well-tested

DANDRUFF AND FALLING HAIR

Scalp Itched. Dandruff Scaled Off. Showed in Hair and Covered Coat Collar. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Hair Stopped Coming Out and Scalp Clean.

Byron, Ga.—"For six years or more I have been troubled with dandruff and falling hair. My scalp would itch so that some times I would be compelled to scratch even in company and I was losing my hair very fast. The dandruff would scale off and show in my hair and when I would comb it the dandruff would almost cover my coat around the collar."

"I used different kinds of hair tonics and skin soaps but none seemed to do very much good for me. I was advised by a friend to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment which I did, and now my hair has stopped coming out and my scalp is clean of dandruff. My hair is thick as it ever was. I also had pimples and blackheads on my face but Cuticura Soap and Ointment has healed them." (Signed) Curtis Sullivan, July 31, 1914.

politics and administration of the Republican party."

Congressman in an article on "The Republican Party" sees ahead industrial depression, strikes and hard times if the Democratic party and tariff remain in power after the war is over. He writes:

"Though the clouds of fatuous Democratic policies may gather thick and black, though despair may fill the air, though destruction may threaten farm and factory interests, miner and magnate, the permanent sources of the country will remain. The sun will continue to shed its light and heat. The rich fertility of the soil will still be there. The rains and the dews will not stop. The wealth of minerals beneath the surface will continue to invite the enterprise and ingenuity of man and urge that they be made use of in providing the necessities, the comforts and the luxuries of the civilized world. The unused bounties of nature will not vanish."

"And reason will again sit on its throne. Hope will revive. Men will again realize that no theories or policies of statescraft will enable them to sell what they produce at high prices and to buy what they consume at low prices; that the country at large must be prosperous and busy if individuals shall thrive; that factories and farms go hand in hand to success or to adversity; that prosperous mills and mines are dependent each upon the other; that order and stability of law, policies, and business are essential to the growth and maintenance of contented society, happy homes, work for all, and a prosperous country."

"And with this realization will come a renewed faith in the Republican party, the leaders and its policies. Confidence will be restored in the land; the hearts of the people will swell. They will put forth renewed effort."

Mr. Herrick's article is on the rural credits movement, and is less political, therefore, than financial.
